General Information

SEAL.

The Seal of the National Society consists of the figure of a minute-man standing by the side of a plough, all surrounded by thirteen stars, the whole encircled by a band, upon which, in raised letters, is the name of the national society, with the date of its organization.

INSIGNIA.

THE BADGE—Obverse: A gold cross of four arms and eight points, of the same size as the Chevalier's Cross of the French Legion of Honor, with white enameled arms. In the center is a gold medallion bust of George Washington in profile, surrounded by a ribbon of blue enamel, on which is the motto of the Society in gold letters, "Libertas et Patria." Between the medallion and the points of the cross is a laurel wreath. Reverse: Like the obverse; the medallion, however, has the figure of a minute-man, surrounded by a ribbon of blue enamel, containing in gold letters the words, "Sons of the American Revolution." The cross is surrounded by an eagle in gold, suspended by a silk ribbon of blue, white and buff.

The cross is a reproduction of the emblem of the French Order of St. Louis, with certain changes, and was adopted to commemorate the assistance given to the Colonies by Louis XVI, Grand Master of that Order. The medallion, containing the head of Washington and the figure of the minute-man, is fitly placed upon a cross of such an origin and associations.

THE ROSETTE. The rosette is a button in the shape of a raised cup, of blue, white and buff ribbon. It is to be worn in the upper left-hand button-hole of the coat.

The only badge now authorized by the national society is that described above, superseding all forms previously used. The price of the badge, or cross of St. Louis, adopted by this society, is nine dollars. It may be obtained of Messrs. J. E. Caldwell & Co., Philadelphia, by permit issued by the Registrar-General, which will be furnished by the state registrar. The rosette may be procured of the state secretary for twenty cents.

THE OFFICIAL MARKER.

The identification and marking of the graves of Revolutionary soldiers and sailors has for some time engaged the attention of the Sons of the American Revolution, but nothing has been done by the society in Indiana. More than five thousand markers have been made and used throughout this and other states, and even in our distant possessions and foreign lands. The cross is of bronze. It is securely fastened to a brass rod; and this, with the cross, makes its entire length about thirty-eight inches. At the lower end the rod may be set into a granite block, or a metal plate, which is to be buried eighteen inches below the surface of the ground. This anchor will render the marker, when once adjusted, almost immovable; and, with the bronze and brass of which it is composed, the whole will last for many years. The National Congress, at its session in 1894, adopted the design for its official marker, and recommended its use by all the state societies.

INFORMATION.

MEMBERSHIP in this Society is strictly limited by the National and State constitutions to such persons as can prove their descent from well-authenticated patriot Revolutionary ancestry. Collateral relationship has at no time been allowed in this body by prescribed regulations or otherwise. Appropriate papers and all needed information for making application for admission will be furnished by the secretary of the state society.

APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP must be made in duplicate; must be signed by the applicant on the second and fourth pages; must be sworn to before a justice or a notary; and returned to the registrar with check for five dollars,—which includes the admission fee and the first year's assessment. Biographical data should be given as fully as possible, and reference to authorities quoted. Care should be taken that all these requirements be carried out, as imperfectly prepared papers can not be accepted.

The Secretary of State of most of the states will make a search of the rolls and archives, and furnish an official certificate for a small sum. The Commissioner of Pensions at Washington will furnish a certificate, gratis, if the ancestor was a pensioner. In some of the states the state librarian will make search for revolutionary records and furnish the desired information for a small fee.

THE CERTIFICATE OF MEMBERSHIP issued by the National Society, handsomely engraved, and of size suitable for framing, will be furnished for the sum of one dollar and fifty cents in advance. Application should be made to the state registrar.

Joslin, of Rhode Island ; John Paul Earnest, of Washington, District of Columbia ; A. S. Hubbard, of California, and all such other persons as may from time to time be associated with them, and their successors, are hereby constituted a body corporate and politic, in the city of Washington, in the District of Columbia, by the name of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

SEC. 2. That the purposes and objects of said corporation are declared to be patriotic, historical, and educational, and shall include those intended or designed to perpetuate the memory of the men who, by their services or sacrifices during the war of the American Revolution, achieved the independence of the American people ; to unite and promote fellowship among their descendants ; to inspire them and the community at large with a more profound reverence for the principles of the Government founded by our forefathers ; to encourage historical research in relation to the American Revolution ; to acquire and preserve the records of the individual services of the patriots of the war, as well as documents, relics, and landmarks ; to mark the scenes of the Revolution by appropriate memorials ; to celebrate the anniversaries of the prominent events of the war and of the Revolutionary period ; to foster true patriotism ; to maintain and extend the institutions of American freedom, and to carry out the purposes expressed in the preamble to the Constitution of our country and the injunctions of Washington in his farewell address to the American people.

SEC. 3. That said corporation shall have power to receive, purchase, hold, sell, and convey real and personal estate, so far only as may be necessary or convenient for its lawful purposes to an amount not exceeding at any one time in the aggregate five hundred thousand dollars; to sue and be sued, complain and defend in any court; to adopt a common seal, and to alter the same at pleasure; to make and adopt a constitution, by-laws, rules, and regulations for admission, government, suspension, and expulsion of its members, and from time to time to alter and repeal such constitution, by-laws, rules, and regulations, and to adopt others in their places; to provide for the election of its officers and to define heir duties; to provide for State societies or chapters with rules for their conduct, and to regulate and provide for the management, safekeeping, and protection of its property and funds; Provided always, That such constitution, by-laws, rules, and regulations be not inconsistent with the laws of the United States or of any of the States thereof.

SEC. 4. That the property and affairs of said corporation shall be managed by not more than sixty nor less than forty trustees, who shall be elected annually at such time as shall be fixed in the by-laws and at least one trustee shall be elected annually from a list of nominees to be made by each of the State societies and submitted to this society at least thirty days before the annual meeting, in accordance with general provisions regulating such nominations as may be adopted by this society.

SEC. 5. That the first meeting of this corporation shall be held on a call issued by any fifteen of the above-named corporators by a written notice signed by them, stating the time and place of meeting, addressed to each of the corporators personally named herein and deposited in the post-office at least five days before the day of meeting.

SEC. 6. That this charter shall take effect upon its being accepted by a majority vote of the corporators named herein who shall be present at said meeting, or at any other meeting specially called for that purpose; and notice of such acceptance shall be given by said corporation by causing a certificate to that effect signed by its president and secretary to be filed in the office of the Secretary of State.

SEC. 7. That Congress reserves the right to alter, amend, or repeal this act.

J. G. CANNON,

Speaker of the House of Representatives.

CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS,

Vice-President of the United States and President of the Senate.

The National Society

The Sons of the American Revolution is composed of lineal descendants of those American colonists and of their French allies who took part in the American struggle for independence. The aim of the society is to keep alive the spirit of the revolutionary fathers by encouraging historical research, preserving records, documents, and relics of the American Revolution, observing patriotic anniversaries and promoting civic righteousness.

The society is organized in the several States and abroad and the members of the several branches are united in what is known as the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, which bears a relation to the branches similar to that which the federal government sustains toward the states.

The origin of the order is in the California society, originally called the Sons of Revolutionary Sires, which came into existence at San Francisco on October 22, 1875. In 1889 similar branches were established in many States, until now the society maintains a prosperous existence in thirty-nine States and Territories and in France and Hawaii.

Among the achievements of the society have been the following:

- A law requiring the indexing and preserving of the Revolutionary service records in the Smithsonian Institution.

- A law permitting army and naval officers to wear the badge on ceremonial occasions.

- The establishment of Flag Day, June 14.

- Forbidding the display of foreign flags on public buildings, except in honor of foreign guests.

- Marking the graves of Revolutionary soldiers in many parts of the country.

- Rescuing many historic buildings from destruction, and many priceless archives and records from oblivion.

- Erecting many monuments.

- Its membership of over eighteen thousand includes the names of many men of distinction, among whom may be mentioned William McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, Nelson A. Miles, George Dewey, David J. Brewer, Horace Porter, Stewart L. Woodford, Levi P. Morton, John W. Daniel, Marcus A. Hanna, Henry Cabot Lodge, Orville H. Platt, Redfield Proctor, Simon B. Buckner, Frederick Dent Grant, Adolphus W. Greeley, Charles King, Thomas M. Anderson, William R. Shafter, J. C. Breckenridge, Joseph Wheeler, William H. English, Henry M. Shepard, William Wirt Henry, David D. Porter, Joseph E. Johnston, Fitzhugh Lee, Wade Hampton, Rutherford B. Hayes, David R. Francis, Thomas F. Bayard, Wm. P. Frye, Philip Hichborn, Chas. A. Dana, Richard Harding Davis, Charles Vernon Gridley, Elihu Root, Russell A. Alger.

Constitution
THE NATIONAL SOCIETY OF THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

(Adopted at the Denver Congress, June 3, 1907)

ARTICLE I.

NAME.

The name of this organization shall be "The National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution."

ARTICLE II.

PURPOSES AND OBJECTS.

The purposes and objects of this Society are declared to be patriotic, historical, and educational, and shall include those intended or designed to perpetuate the memory of the men who, by their services or sacrifices during the war of the American Revolution, achieved the independence of the American people; to unite and promote fellowship among their descendants; to inspire them and the community at large with a more profound reverence for the principles of the Government founded by our forefathers; to encourage historical research in relation to the American Revolution; to acquire and preserve the records of the individual services of the patriots of the war, as well as documents, relics, and landmarks; to mark the scenes of the Revolution by appropriate memorials; to celebrate the anniversaries of the prominent events of the war and of the Revolutionary period; to foster true patriotism; to maintain and extend the institutions of American freedom, and to carry out the purposes expressed in the preamble of the Constitution of our country and the injunctions of Washington in his farewell address to the American people.

ARTICLE III.

MEMBERSHIP.

SECTION 1. Any man shall be eligible to membership in the Society who, being of the age of twenty-one years or over, and a citizen of good repute in the community, is the lineal descendant of an ancestor who was at all times unfailing in his loyalty to, and rendered active service in, the cause of American Independence, either as an officer, soldier, seaman, marine, militiaman or minute man, in the armed forces of the Continental Congress, or of any one of the several Colonies or States, or as a signer of the Declaration of Independence; or as a member of a Committee of Safety or Correspondence; or as a member of any Continental, Provincial, or Colonial Congress or Legislature; or as a recognized patriot who performed actual service by overt acts of resistance to the authority of Great Britain.

SEC. 2. Applications for membership shall be made to any State Society, in duplicate, upon blank forms prescribed by the Board of Trustees, and shall in each case set forth the name, occupation and residence of the applicant, line of descent, and the name, residence and services of his ancestor or ancestors in the Revolution, from whom he derives eligibility.

The applicant shall make oath that the statements of his application are true, to the best of his knowledge and belief.

Upon the approval of an application by the State Society, to which it is made, one copy shall be transmitted to the Registrar General of the National Society, who shall examine further the eligibility of the applicant. If satisfied that the member is not eligible, he shall return the application for correction.

Until the State Society shall satisfy the Registrar General of the eligibility of such applicant, his name shall not be placed on the roll of membership.

SEC. 3. The official designation of the members of The National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution shall be "Compatriots."

ARTICLE IV.

NATIONAL AND STATE SOCIETIES.

SECTION 1. The National Society shall embrace all the members of the State Societies of the Sons of the American Revolution now existing or which may hereafter be established under this Constitution.

SEC. 2. Whenever in any State or Territory in which a State Society does not exist, or in which a State Society has become inactive, or failed for two years to pay its annual dues to the National Society, fifteen or more persons duly qualified for membership in this Society may associate themselves as a State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, and organize in accordance with this Constitution, they may be admitted by the Board of Trustees to the National Society as "The ——— Society of the Sons of the American Revolution," and shall thereafter have exclusive local jurisdiction in the State or Territory or in the District in which they are organized, subject to the provisions of this Constitution, but this provision shall not be construed so as to exclude the admission of candidates residing in other States.

SEC. 3. Each State Society shall judge of the qualifications of its members and of those proposed for membership, subject to the provisions of this Constitution, and shall regulate all matters pertaining to its own affairs. It shall have authority to establish local chapters within its own jurisdiction, and to endow the chapters with such power as it may deem proper, not inconsistent with the charter of the National Society or with this Constitution. It shall have authority, after due notice and impartial trial, to expel any member who, by conduct unbecoming a gentleman, shall render himself unworthy to remain a member of the Society.

SEC. 4. Each State Society shall submit to the Annual Congress of the National Society a report, setting forth by name the additions, transfers and deaths, and any other changes in the membership and the progress of the State Society during the preceding year, and making such suggestions as it shall deem proper for the promotion of the objects of the National Society.

SEC. 5. Whenever a member in good standing in his Society shall change his residence from the jurisdiction of the State Society of which he is a member to that of another, he shall be entitled, if he so elects, to a certificate of honorable demission from his own State Society, in order that he may be transferred to the State Society to whose jurisdiction he shall have changed his residence; provided, that his membership shall continue in the former until he shall have been elected a member of the latter.

Each State Society shall, however, retain full control of the admission of members by transfer.

SEC. 6. Whenever the word "State" occurs in this Constitution, it shall be held to include within its meaning the District of Columbia and the Territories of the United States.

SEC. 7. A Society may be formed in any foreign country by fifteen or more persons who are eligible to membership under this Constitution, which shall bear the same relation to the National organization as the State Society, subject to the provisions of this Constitution.

ARTICLE V.

OFFICERS AND TRUSTEES.

SECTION 1. The General Officers of the National Society shall be a President General, five Vice-Presidents General, the order of seniority among whom shall be determined by lot at the time of their election, a Secretary General, Treasurer General, Registrar General, Historian General and Chaplain General, who shall be elected by ballot by a vote of a majority of the members present and entitled to vote at the annual meeting of the Congress of the National Society, and shall hold office for one year and until their successors shall be elected.

SEC. 2. The General Officers provided for in section 1, together with one member from each State Society, shall constitute the Board of Trustees of the National Society. Such Trustee from each of the several State Societies shall be elected annually at the Congress of the National Society, upon the nomination, or from a list of nominees, to be made by each of the State Societies and submitted to the National Society by the filing thereof with the Secretary of the National Society at least thirty days before the meeting of the Annual Congress of the National Society. And in the event that any one or more of the State Societies shall omit or neglect to make such nomination or submit said list of nominees, by the time herein required, then the President of the State Society so in default, shall, virtute officii, be chosen as and become the representative of his State Society upon said Board.

SEC. 3. The Board of Trustees shall have charge of, and be charged with the care and custody of all property belonging to the National Society, and to that end shall be vested with the powers conferred by section 3 of the Act of Incorporation of the National Society: Provided, however, That it shall not have the power to sell, convey or in any wise encumber any real estate belonging to the Society without the assent of three-fourths of the members of said Board. The Board of Trustees shall also have authority to adopt and promulgate the By-Laws of the National Society, to prescribe the duties of the General Officers, to provide the seal, to designate and make regulations for the issue of the insignia, and to transact the general business of the National Society during the intervals between the sessions of the Congress.

Meetings of the Board of Trustees may be held at the call of the President General, or in case of his absence or inability, at the call of the Senior Vice-President General, certified by the Secretary General. Meetings shall be called at the request of seven members. At such meetings seven shall constitute a quorum.

SEC. 4. An executive committee of seven, consisting of the President General as chairman, and six members to be nominated by him and approved by the Board of Trustees, shall, in the interim between the meetings of the Board, transact such business as may be delegated to it by a Congress of the Society or the Board of Trustees.

ARTICLE VI.

DUES.

Each State Society shall pay annually to the Treasurer General, to defray the expenses of the National Society, fifty cents for each active member thereof, unless intermitted by the National Congress.

All such dues shall be paid on or before the first day of April in each year for the ensuing year, in order to secure representation in the Congress of the National Society.

ARTICLE VII.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

SECTION 1. The Annual Congress of the National Society for the election of the General Officers and for the transaction of business shall be held on the thirtieth day of April or on the first day of May in each year. The place of such meeting shall be designated by the Board of Trustees.

SEC. 2. Special meetings of the Congress may be called by the President General, and shall be called by him when directed so to do by the Board of Trustees, or whenever requested in writing so to do by at least five State Societies, on giving thirty days' notice, specifying the time and place of such meeting and the business to be transacted.

SEC. 3. The following shall be members of all such annual or special meetings of the Congress, and shall be entitled to vote therein:

(1.) All the General Officers and the ex-Presidents General of the National Society.

(2.) The members of the Board of Trustees and the President or Senior Vice-President of each State Society.

(3.) One delegate at large from each State Society.

(4.) One delegate from every fifty members of the Society within a State and for a fraction of twenty-five or over.

SEC. 4. After the adjournment of the Eighteenth Annual Congress of this Society, State Societies shall be represented at meetings of the National Society only by members of their own State Society, either duly elected, or who in the absence of regularly elected delegates, may be chosen by the regularly elected attending delegates of such State Society from the members of such State Society who may be present at any meeting of the National Society.

ARTICLE VIII.

AMENDMENTS.

This Constitution may be altered or amended at any meeting of the Congress of the National Society, provided that sixty days' notice of the proposed alterations or amendments, which shall first have been recommended by a State Society, or by a prior Congress, or by the Board of Trustees, or by the Executive Committee of the National Society, shall be sent by the Secretary General to the President of each State Society.

A vote of two-thirds of those present shall be necessary to their adoption.

ARTICLE IX.

This Constitution shall take effect upon its adoption.

By-Laws

OF

THE NATIONAL SOCIETY OF THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

(Adopted at Denver Congress, June 3, 1907)

ARTICLE I.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

All nominations of General Officers shall be made from the floor, and the election shall be by ballot. A majority shall elect. The nominations may be acted upon directly or may be referred to a committee to examine and report.

ARTICLE II.

OFFICERS.

The duties of the General Officers shall be such as usually appertain to their offices, and they shall have such other duties as are hereinafter imposed or shall be delegated to them by an annual Congress or by the Board of Trustees.

They shall report at the annual meeting, and at such other times as they may be required to do so by the Board of Trustees.

ARTICLE III.

PRESIDENT GENERAL.

SECTION I. The President General, in addition to his general duties, shall be ex officio chairman of the Board of Trustees, and of the Executive Committee, and a member of every other Committee.

SEC. 2. At each annual meeting he shall appoint the following standing committees:

Committee on Auditing and Finance,
Committee on Credentials,
Memorial Committee,
Committee on Organization,
Committee on Education.

The duties of the above committees shall be such as usually pertain to committees of like character, and such as may be defined by the Board of Trustees.

ARTICLE IV.

VICE-PRESIDENTS GENERAL.

SECTION 1. In the absence of the President General, the Senior Vice-President General present shall preside at the Annual Meeting.

SEC. 2. In the prolonged absence or inability to act of the President General, the executive authority shall be vested in the Vice-Presidents General in order of precedence.

ARTICLE V.

SECRETARY GENERAL.

The Secretary General, in addition to his general duties, shall have charge of the seal, and give due notice of all meetings of the National Society or Board of Trustees. He shall give due notice to all General Officers and State Societies of all votes, orders and proceedings affecting or appertaining to their duties. He shall distribute all pamphlets, circulars, rosettes and supplies, as directed by the Board of Trustees.

ARTICLE VI.

TREASURER GENERAL.

SECTION 1. The Treasurer General shall collect and receive the funds and securities of the National Society. He shall deposit the same to the credit of the "Society of the Sons of the American Revolution," and shall draw them thence for the use of the National Society, as directed by it or by the Board of Trustees, upon the order of the President General, countersigned by the Secretary General. His accounts shall be audited by a committee to be appointed at the Annual Meeting.

SEC. 2. He shall give bond for the safe custody and application of the funds, the cost of such bond to be borne by the National Society.

ARTICLE VII.

REGISTRAR GENERAL.

The Registrar General shall keep a register of the names and dates of the election, resignation or death of all members of the several State Societies, and shall have the care and custody of all duplicate applications for membership. He shall issue upon the requisition of the Secretary or Registrar of the several State Societies certificates of membership and insignia to every member entitled thereto, through such Secretary or Registrar.

ARTICLE VIII.

HISTORIAN GENERAL.

The Historian General shall have the custody of all the historical and biographical collections of which the National Society may become possessed and shall catalogue and arrange the same, and shall place the same in a fireproof repository for preservation.

ARTICLE IX.

CHAPLAIN GENERAL.

The Chaplain General shall be a regularly ordained minister, and shall open and close all general meetings of the National Society with the services usual and proper on such occasions.

ARTICLE X.

STATE SOCIETIES.

Every State Society shall—

(1) Notify the Secretary General of the election and appointment of all officers, nominees for Board of Trustees and delegates.

(2) Pay to the Treasurer General on the first day of March or within thirty days thereafter, the sum of fifty cents for each active member thereof.

(3) Transmit to the Registrar General duplicate applications of all accepted members, and notify him of the resignation or death of all members thereof.

ARTICLE XI.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

SECTION 1. The Board of Trustees shall prepare and carry out plans for promoting the objects and growth of the Society; shall generally superintend its interests, and shall execute such other duties as shall be committed to it at any meeting of the National Society. It shall have charge of the printing of the Diploma and the manufacturing of the Insignia, and shall determine the price at which the same shall be issued.

SEC. 2. It shall have the authority to admit or reorganize as a State Society any association of fifteen or more persons duly qualified for membership in the Society.

SEC. 3. It shall have power to fill any vacancy occurring among the General Officers, and an officer so elected shall act until the following annual election and until his successor shall be elected.

SEC. 4. It shall have authority to make, alter and amend the By-Laws as hereinafter provided.

SEC. 5. The President General may call meetings of the Board of Trustees at any time he may deem necessary, and shall call such meetings upon the written request of any five members thereof, provided that of any meeting, other than such as may be called during the session or immediately upon the adjournment of an annual or special Congress of the National Society, not less than five days' notice of the time and place of such meeting shall be given.

ARTICLE XII.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the Executive Committee may be called at any time by the President General, and such meeting shall be called upon the written request of three members thereof. It shall be the duty of the Executive Committee to exercise the powers, and perform the duties committed to it by any annual or special Congress or by the Board of Trustees; to control and supervise all arrangements for the holding of the annual or any special Congress, and the social and other functions connected therewith; it shall upon the request of the proper committee of the National Society or of the Board of Trustees, assist in the organization of new State Societies, and increasing the membership of weak State Societies, and for these purposes may incur its necessary expenses, limited to such amounts as may be in the Treasury unappropriated, and not required for the current expenses of the National Society during the year.

ARTICLE XIII.

SEAL.

The seal of the Society shall be two and three-eighths of an inch in diameter, charged with the figure of a minute man, grasping a musket in his right hand, and surrounded by a constellation of thirteen stars, who shall be depicted in the habit of a husbandman of the period of the American Revolution, and as in the act of deserting the plough for the service of his country; the whole encircled by a band three-eighths of an inch wide, within which shall appear the legend, "National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, organized April 30, 1889."

ARTICLE XIV.

CERTIFICATES.

All members of this Society, wherever admitted, shall be entitled to a certificate of membership duly attested by the President General, Secretary General and Registrar General, countersigned by the President, Secretary and Registrar of the State Society to which such member shall have been admitted.

ARTICLE XV.

INSIGNIA.

The insignia of the Society shall comprise (1) a cross surmounted by an eagle in gold, (2) a rosette.

SECTION 1. The cross shall be of silver, with four arms, covered with white enamel and eight gold points, same size as a Chevalier's Cross of the Legion of Honor of France, with a gold medallion in the center bearing on the obverse a bust of Washington in profile, and on the reverse the figure of a minute man, surrounded by a ribbon enameled blue, with the motto "Libertas et Patria" on the obverse, and the legend "Sons of the American Revolution" on the reverse, both in letters of gold. The cross shall be surmounted by an eagle in gold and the whole decoration suspended from a ring of gold by a ribbon of deep blue, with white and buff edges, and may be worn by any member of the Society on ceremonial occasions only, and shall be carried on the left breast, or at the collar if an officer or Past President General of the National Society, or the President, active or past, of a State Society.

SEC. 2. The rosette shall be seven-sixteenths of an inch in diameter, of usual pattern, displaying the colors of the Society, blue, white, and buff, and may be worn by all members at discretion in the upper left-hand buttonhole of the coat.

ARTICLE XVI.

INDEBTEDNESS.

No debts shall be contracted on behalf of the National Society. Every obligation for the payment of money, except checks drawn against deposits, executed in the name or on behalf of the National Society shall be null and void.

ARTICLE XVII.

ORDER OF BUSINESS OF THE ANNUAL CONGRESS.

1. Calling the Congress to order by the President General.
2. Opening prayer by the Chaplain General.
3. Appointment of a Committee on Credentials.
4. Remarks by the President General on condition and needs of the Society. 25611
5. Report of Committee on Credentials.
6. Reading of minutes of the last Congress.
7. Report of Board of Trustees.
8. Reports of General Officers.
9. Reports of standing committees.
10. Reports of special committees.
11. Reports of State Societies.
12. Old and unfinished business.
13. New business, including election of officers and Trustees.
14. Adjournment.
15. Provided, That for a special purpose the Congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of those present and voting, suspend the above order of business.

ARTICLE XVIII.

AMENDMENTS.

These By-Laws may be altered or amended by a vote of three-fourths of the members present at any meeting of the Board of Trustees, notice thereof having been given at a previous meeting.

The Indiana Society

COLONEL SAMUEL MERRILL
LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA
President 1890

The Indiana Society

A preliminary meeting for the organization of the society in Indiana was held on April 23, 1889, in the Indiana State House. William H. English presided and David E. Snyder was secretary. William H. English and Charles W. Merrill were appointed delegates to attend the organization of the National Society in New York City, April 30, 1889. On January 15, a meeting was held at the office of Charles F. Griffin, Secretary of State of Indiana, for permanent organization. Colonel Samuel Merrill moved that those present organize, and upon motion of Will E. English the proposed constitution and by-laws were adopted with amendments. The society was organized on January 15, 1890, and at that time chose as the date of its annual meeting the 25th of February, the anniversary of the capture of Fort Sackville, at Vincennes, Indiana, in 1779.

The first President elected was Colonel Samuel Merrill, of Indianapolis, and William E. English was recommended to the National Board of Managers as the Indiana member of that board.

March 15, 1890, Colonel Samuel Merrill resigned to become Consul General at Calcutta, and the vice-president, William E. English, was elected to fill the vacancy.

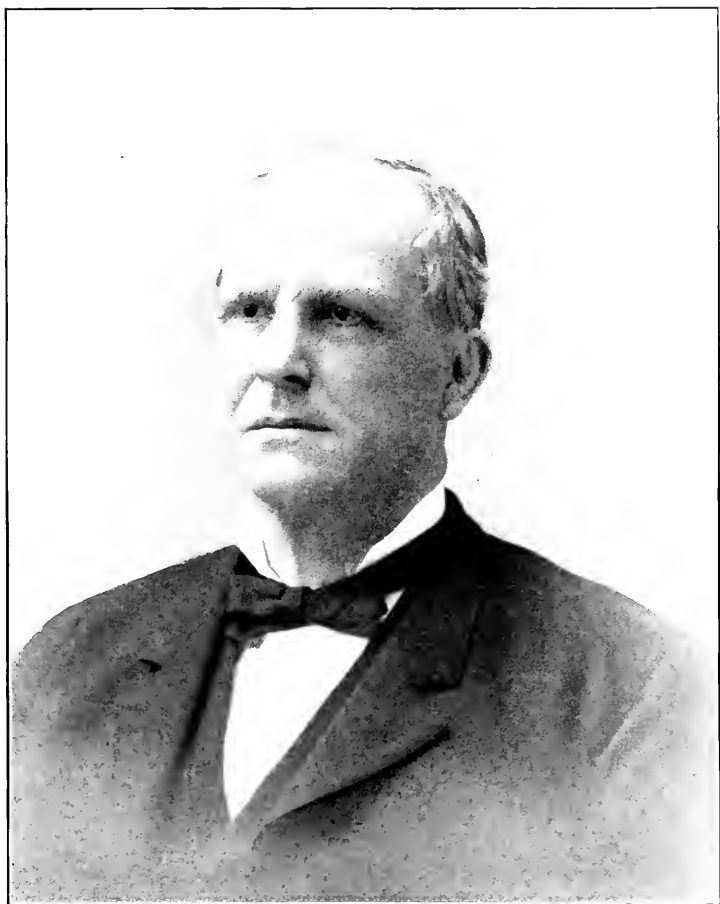

The Indiana society was fortunate in enrolling as its first member the late William H. English. Mr. English was the democratic nominee for Vice-President of the United States with General Winfield Scott Hancock.

Among its members still living is Wellington Alexander Clark, Esq., of Crown Point, whose father was a soldier in the American Revolution.

The society has placed portraits of Revolutionary heroes in a number of the public institutions of the state, and in some of the local public educational institutions. As will appear from the memorial at page 141, it gave the initial impetus toward the adoption of the present plan of subsidiary monuments surrounding the base of the Indiana State Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument at Indianapolis.

JESSE ANDREW
BORN 1806, DIED 1900.
Son of John Andrew, M. D.
Surgeon New Jersey Revolutionary Troops

Roll of Members

SHOWING THEIR PLACE OF BIRTH, RESIDENCE, RECORD OF REVOLUTIONARY ANCESTORS; STATE NUMBER AND NATIONAL NUMBER

The names of actual sons of soldiers of the revolution appear in black type.

WILLIAM WARD ADAMSON. Born in Rockville, Indiana. Residence, Terre Haute, Indiana. State No. 307; National No. 18132. Son of Nathan and Phebe (Humphreys) Adamson; grandson of John Humphreys and Jane (Ward) Humphreys; great-grandson of James Ward, who was commissioned an ensign in the Virginia Militia under Colonel Andrew Lewis in August of 1763. In the Autumn of 1774, the Indians, incited by the British, became more and more troublesome and the Virginia troops, under the command of General Andrew Lewis, were sent to the front to meet the Indians, led by their chief, "Cornstalk." In the Battle of Point Pleasant, October 10, James Ward, who had been promoted in rank and was in this engagement captain of a regiment under Colonel William Fleming, was killed, and his body buried on the battlefield. See Waddert's History of Aug. Co.; Foote's History of Virginia; John Lewis Peyton's History of Aug. Co.; John Stewart's Memories of the Battle of Point Pleasant; family records, papers and accounts printed in the Springfield, Ohio, papers in 1857, and the Mason County, Kentucky papers in 1886.

JESSE ANDREW. Born in Center County, Pennsylvania. State No. 88; National No. 1688. Son of Doctor John Andrew, surgeon's mate and afterwards surgeon. Commissioned in 1775 and served until the end of the war, he being present and on duty at the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. See History of Medicine and Medical Men of New Jersey, by Stephen Wicks. Torren's List of Surgeons and Physicians of the Revolution. Stryker's Register. See Record of Dr. George L. Andrew, National No. 6331.

JESSE C. ANDREW. Born in Lafayette, Indiana. State No. 89; National No. 1689. Residence, Seattle, Washington. Grandson of John Andrew, whose record is shown above.

THOMAS M. ANDREW. Born in Lafayette, Indiana. Residence, West Point, Indiana. State No. 90; National No. 1690. Son of Jesse and Sarah (Nichol) Andrew; grandson of John Andrew, who was a surgeon in New Jersey Militia, as shown above.

EDWIN MARSH ANTHONY. Born in New Albany, Indiana. Residence, Chicago, Illinois. State No. 57; National No. 1657. Son of A. J. P. and Nancy Lurinda (Marsh) Anthony; grandson of Edwin and Lydia Marsh; great-grand son of Samuel Chandler and Martha (Seabrook) Marsh; great-great-grandson of Stephen Seabrook; great-great-great-grandson of Thomas Seabrook, Lieutenant-Colonel Reed's Battalion New Jersey State Troops; at Battle of Monmouth.

BEZA ARCHER. Born in Princeton, Indiana. Residence, Princeton, Indiana. State No. 179; National No. 11704. Son of David and Martha (McCalla) Archer; grandson of Thomas and Mary (McCalla) Archer; great-grandson of Thomas McCalla, private Eleventh Pennsylvania Line. See Pennsylvania Archives, Second Series, Volume 13, page 146, and Volume 11, page 68.

HENRY CORNELIUS ATKINS. Born in Atlanta, Iowa. Residence, Indianapolis, Indiana. State No. 36; National No. 1636. Son of Elias Cornelius and Sarah Frances (Parker) Atkins; grandson of Addison and Eunice (Brigham) Parker; great-grandson of Joseph and Rebecca (Haynes) Brigham; great-great-grandson of Abijah Brigham, Second Lieutenant Captain Amasa Cranston's Company, 1779, Sudbury, Massachusetts, Militia.

WILLIAM WALLACE ATTERBURY. Born in New Albany, Indiana. Residence, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. State No. 79; National No. 1679. Son of John Guest and Catherine Jones (Larned) Atterbury; grandson of Charles and Sylvia (Colt) Larned; great-grandson of Simon Learned, Captain Second Company Fourth Massachusetts Regiment; Ensign, 1775; Adjutant and Captain, 1777; Aide-de-Camp, 1779 to 1781; Captain, 1782. See Record Index, Revolutionary War Archives, in custody of Secretary of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

GUILFORD CARLILE BABCOCK. Born in Evansville, Indiana. Residence, New York City. State No. 157; National No. 10132. Son of Henry Oliver and Mary (Howser) Babcock; grandson of Oliver and Anne (Heartt) Babcock; great-grandson of Oliver Babcock, who was Lieutenant of Sixth Connecticut Regiment, Parson's Tenth Regiment Continental Line; Ensign, 1775; Lieutenant, 1775, and also of Knowlton's Rangers. He was taken prisoner at Fort Washington in November of 1776, but was exchanged the following January. See "Connecticut in the Revolution," pages 73, 99 and 122.

LEMUEL FORD PERDUE. Born in Jeffersonville, Indiana. Residence, Terre Haute, Indiana. State No. 330; National No. 19405. Son of Jesse Perdue and Elizabeth Ford Perdue; grandson of Lemuel Ford and Hannah (McDowell) Ford; great-grandson of Joseph McDowell, who was captain of North Carolina Militia under his brother, Colonel Charles McDowell, in all of the battles up to King's Mountain, at which time he assumed command in the absence of the colonel, and retained that position and rank until the surrender of Cornwallis. He occupied the right in line of battle under Campbell, Shelby and Sevier, and for his gallantry has been termed by Draper, Wheeler, and other historians, "The Hero of King's Mountain." He also fought at Cowpens and Yorktown. At the close of the war he was at different times a member of both branches of the State Legislative bodies—twice elected to Congress; was a member or delegate to the North Carolina convention called to ratify the Federal Constitution, in which he bore a conspicuous part, and helped to defeat it and hold North Carolina out of the Union of States for more than two years, during which time North Carolina and Rhode Island were the Colonial Government and the eleven states were secessionists. His chief objection to ratifying the new Constitution was his fear of too strong a government, he favoring the fullest and freest rights to all. Also great-great-grandson of Colonel George Moffett, who engaged in active service from the beginning to the close of the Revolution, serving with the rank of Colonel at King's Mountain, Guilford Court House and Cowpens. He not only served with honorable distinction in the Indian wars and the Revolution, but also was prominent in civil affairs as well. See Henning's Statutes. Constitution

OF

THE INDIANA SOCIETY OF THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

ARTICLE I.

The name of this Society shall be "THE INDIANA SOCIETY OF THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION."

ARTICLE II.

The Society shall be perpetual.

ARTICLE III.

The purpose of this Society shall be to perpetuate the memory of the men, who, by their services or sacrifices during the War of the American Revolution, achieved the Independence of the American people; to unite and promote fellowship among their descendants; to inspire them and the community at large with a more profound reverence for the principles of the government founded by our forefathers; to encourage historical research in relation to the American Revolution; to acquire and preserve the records of the individual services of the patriots of the war, as well as documents, relics, and landmarks; to mark the scenes of the Revolution by appropriate memorials; to celebrate the anniversaries of the prominent events of the war; to foster true patriotism; to maintain and extend the institutions of American freedom; and to carry out the purposes expressed in the preamble to the Constitution of our country and the injunctions of Washington in his farewell address to the American people.

ARTICLE IV.

Any male resident of Indiana, over the age of twenty-one years, shall be eligible for membership who is descended, on either the male or female line, from an ancestor who assisted in establishing American Independence during the War of the Revolution; whether as a military or naval officer, soldier or sailor, or as an official or recognized subordinate in the service of any one of the thirteen original colonies or states, or of the national government, representing those colonies or states. No person lacking in these qualifications shall be eligible to membership in the Society.

ARTICLE V.

The officers shall be the President, three Vice-Presidents, Secretary, Registrar, and Treasurer, Chaplain, and a trustee who shall represent the society in the corporate organization of the national society, and these officers shall constitute the Board of Managers. The Society or its Board of Managers may also select honorary Vice-Presidents. Officers shall serve without pay except where the Society, at its annual meeting, determines otherwise.

ARTICLE VI.

This Constitution may be altered, amended, or repealed by a vote of two-thirds of the members of the Society present, at a regular meeting of the Society or at a special meeting called for that purpose, after proper notice has been given of such special meeting.

By-Laws of the Indiana Society

SECTION 1. Members shall be elected as follows: Candidates may send their names and documents, or other proofs of qualification for membership, to the Secretary; and upon a favorable consideration by the Board of Managers, shall, upon payment of the membership fee and first annual dues, thereupon become members of the Society.

SEC. 2. The initiation fee shall be three dollars and the annual dues two dollars. The payment at one time of fifty dollars shall constitute a life member, and the member so paying shall be exempt from the payment of annual dues thereafter.

SEC. 3. The annual meeting of the Society shall be held on the 25th day of February, the anniversary of the capture of Ft. Sackville, at Vincennes, Indiana, and in each and every year thereafter, at which a general election of officers by ballot shall take place, except when such date shall fall on Sunday, in which event the meeting shall be held on the following day, unless otherwise set by the Board of Managers upon due notice to the members. In such election, a majority of the ballots cast for any officer shall constitute a choice.

SEC. 4. At all meetings of the Society, five members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

SEC. 5. The President, or, in his absence, one of the Vice-Presidents, shall preside at all meetings. He shall preserve order and shall decide all questions of order, subject to an appeal to the Society.

SEC. 6. The Secretary shall conduct the general correspondence of the Society. He shall notify all members of their election and of such other matters as he may be directed by the Society. He shall have charge of the seal, certificate of incorporation, by-laws and records of the Society. He, together with the presiding officer, shall certify all acts of the Society. He shall give due notice of the time and place of all meetings of the Society, and attend the same. He shall keep fair and accurate records of all the proceedings and orders of the Society; and shall give notice to the several officers of all votes, orders, resolutions, and proceedings of the Society affecting them or pertaining to their respective duties.

SEC. 7. The Treasurer shall collect and keep the funds and securities of the Society. They shall be deposited in some bank or savings institution in this State, to the credit of THE INDIANA SOCIETY OF THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION, and shall be drawn thence on the checks of the Treasurer for the purposes of the Society only. Out of these funds he shall pay such sums only as may be ordered by the Society or by the Board of Managers. He shall keep a true account of his receipts and payments, and at each annual meeting render the same to the Society, when a committee shall be appointed to audit his accounts.

SEC. 8. If, from the annual report of the Treasurer, there shall appear to be a balance against the Treasurer, no appropriation of money shall be made for any object but the necessary current expenses of the Society until such balance shall be paid.

SEC. 9. The Registrar shall keep a roll of members; and in his hands shall be lodged all the proofs of membership qualification, and all books and the historical and geographical papers, manuscript or other, of which the Society may become possessed; and under the direction of such executive committee of the Board of Managers, shall, for adequate compensation, keep a copy of such similar documents as the owners thereof may not be willing to leave permanently in the keeping of the Society.

SEC. 10. The Board of Managers shall judge of the qualifications of the candidates for admission to the Society and elect the same, and shall have charge of all the special meetings of the Society, and shall, through the Secretary, call special meetings at any time, upon the written request of five members of the Society, and at such other times as they see fit. They shall recommend plans for promoting the objects of the Society, shall digest and prepare business and shall authorize the disbursement and expenditure of unappropriated money in the treasury for the payment of current expenses and the work of increasing the membership, organization and maintenance of chapters and other expenses of the Society. They shall act as Trustees of the Society and generally superintend the interests of the same, and execute all such duties as may be committed to them.

At all meetings of the Board of Managers three shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

SEC. 11. No amendment of the By-Laws shall be made unless adopted by a two-thirds vote of the members present at a meeting of the Society.

SEC. 12. Membership shall cease whenever dues being delinquent for three years a default of thirty days shall occur in the payment of the annual dues or other obligations to the Society.

LOCAL CHAPTERS.

SEC. 13. Local chapters may be organized in any county of Indiana upon the application in writing to the Board of Managers of ten members of the Indiana Society, whose qualification for membership shall have been duly approved by the National Society. The selection of its officers and its mode of government shall be under the control and direction of such local chapter free of any outside supervision so long as the conduct of its affairs is in conformity with the Constitution and By-Laws of the National and State Society, of which it shall be a part.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

At annual meetings of this Society the following order of business shall be observed, viz.:

1. Opening exercises.
2. Calling roll of officers and members.
3. Reading minutes of last meeting.
4. Reports of officers: President, Secretary, Treasurer, Registrar, Historian, Board of Managers. Other official reports.
5. Reports of committees.
6. Unfinished business.
7. Election and installation of Officers and Board of Managers.
8. New business.
9. Final adjournment.

RESOLUTIONS

OF

THE GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC

AND ADDRESS OF

HON. WM. H. ENGLISH

IN RELATION TO

THE ORNAMENTATION OF THE INDIANA "STATE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' MONUMENT."

"It will go down the ages, growing in favor as the irresistible years sweep by, and all who are now living have returned to dust."

TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF INDIANA :

The undersigned respectfully represent to your honorable body that at the last annual meeting of the Indiana Society of the Sons of the American Revolution the subject of the ornamentation of the Indiana State Soldiers' Monument and grounds was considered, and the sentiments and recommendations of an address then delivered by the Hon. William H. English were, by resolution, unanimously approved, and the officers of the society directed to present the matter to the Legislature for its favorable consideration, which we now most respectfully and earnestly do.

Subsequently to this action of the society, the Grand Army of the Republic, at its annual meeting held at Fort Wayne, April 6 and 7, 1892, adopted unanimously resolutions approving the suggestion made in said address, that the four most prominent epochs in Indiana military history be commemorated by a statue of the principal representative man of each of said epochs, viz. :

1. George Rogers Clark, for the capture of Vincennes and the War of the Revolution.

2. William Henry Harrison, for Tippecanoe and the other Indiana events of the Indian wars and the war of 1812.

3. Oliver Perry Morton (whose statue is already made), for the great Civil War.

4. Some one as a representative of Indiana in the Mexican War, to be named by the Legislature or the Monument Commissioners.

These resolutions will be found on pages 174-5 of the Journal of the Grand Army of the Republic's thirteenth annual session, and a copy of the same, together with the address referred to, are submitted herewith for the favorable action of the Legislature.

WILLIAM E. NIBLACK,
President S. A. R.

WILLIAM E. ENGLISH,
Vice-President.

CHARLES W. MOORES,
Secretary.

DAVID E. SNYDER,
Registrar.

CINCINNATUS H. McDOWELL,
Treasurer.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.

The Committee on Resolutions recommended the adoption of the following, which was presented by Comrade B. F. Havens, of Post No. 1:

Resolved, That the suggestion made in a recent address by Hon. Wm. H. English, before the Indiana Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, that the Soldiers' Monument now being erected at Indianapolis, should, as far as practical, illustrate the four great military epochs in Indiana history, seems to be fair and reasonable; and,

Resolved further, That we approve the suggestion that these four epochs be illustrated and commemorated by the following statues of representative men, to be constructed in bronze in harmony with the general plan of the monument, and under the direction of the Monument Commissioners, namely:

1. George Rogers Clark, for the capture of Vincennes and the War of the Revolution.

2. William Henry Harrison, for Tippecanoe and the other Indiana events of the Indian wars and war of 1812.

3. Oliver Perry Morton, for the great Civil War.

4. Some one as a representative of "Indiana in the Mexican War," to be named by the Legislature or the Monument Commissioners.

Resolved further, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the Monument Commissioners and to each branch of the next Legislature.

The Department Commander: Without objection, the recommendation of the committee will stand as the sense of this Encampment.

It was so ordered.

(From the Indianapolis News, February 26, 1892.)

Twenty members of the Indiana Society of the Sons of the American Revolution sat down to a dinner at the Denison House last night. Hon. William E. Niblack presided. Among those present were the officers of the society, including Will E. English, Rev. C. H. McDowell, David E. Snyder and Charles W. Moores, and in addition Dr. L. L. Todd, Cephas B. Huston, Duncan T. Bacon, Moses G. McLain, Edwin D. Bryant and John J. Curtis.

One immediate son of a Revolutionary soldier, Samuel C. Meredith, of this city, was present. The Society has on its rolls the names of three other actual sons, Nelson Prentiss, of Albion; Elijah Newland, of New Albany, and John Dunning, of Valparaiso.

Merrill Moores spoke on "The Significance of the Flag," his remarks being full of the spirit of State pride. "Were the Men of '76 Aristocrats?" was the theme of a felicitous speech by Rev. A. Hunter Anthony, of Spencer. Dr. George McConnell, of Angola, and F. N. Kollock, of Ft. Wayne, were also called on.

The distinguishing speech of the evening was an address by Hon. William H. English, on "The Indiana Soldiers' Monument."

ADDRESS OF WILLIAM H. ENGLISH

The object of this society is not alone to cherish the memories of honored ancestors, who periled their lives for the independence and union of these States, but it extends, alike, to all who have fought in its defense or for its preservation.

Its purpose is to foster a love of our country, and respect and admiration for the men of all wars, who have stood in its defense in time of danger.

It was in this broad, patriotic spirit, no doubt, that Indiana was inspired to cause to be erected, in the center of her Capital City, a great monument that should stand for ages as a testimonial in honor of the soldiers and sailors connected with her history.

It was an undertaking worthy of any people, and especially noticeable and commendable in a young community, organized as a territory only ninety-two years ago, and existing as a State but a few months over seventy-five years. It was the dawning of a new era with a people but recently emerged from the hardships and privations of pioneer life. It was a bold, forward movement into the light of the grand and beautiful, of the most cultured and advanced civilization of the world.

It was all the more encouraging because it was an indication of an awakening of State pride, where, before, it is to be feared, there was a sad deficiency.

If this monument is completed, in the style it should be, with grounds, streets and approaches improved to harmonize with it, as they should be, we shall have here a great Indiana work of art, as an exponent of her military history, which may truly be regarded as a "thing of beauty and a joy forever."

It will go down the ages, growing in favor as the irresistible years sweep by, and all who are now living have returned to dust.

It will not only tend to inspire the present and future generations of Indianians with patriotism and State pride, but it will in time be visited and admired by a multitude of strangers, thus causing the State to be more favorably and generally known in other countries.

But the monument is not yet completed. In fact, a great deal remains to be done to make it what it should be. The stone shaft alone is nearing completion. It is grand and beautiful, and,

I presume, faultless in construction. But, grand and beautiful as it is, it would not alone make a distinctive Indiana monument, such as this should be. It would answer just as well for a Maine or California monument if set down in either of those States. For that matter, it would do just as well for a foreign country, if placed there.

The important thing, then, to consider is the work which yet remains to be done.

We must look to the bronze groups, the statuary and other ornamentations, yet to be added, for any local identity, or special illustrations of Indiana military history. It is here we shall find deficiencies or the crowning glory of this great work.

And, oh, what a sad misfortune it would be to have mistakes made at this vital point!

Let us examine what the commissioners are proposing to do in this regard, and what they outline the monument is to be when completed.

I will give it, in their own words, as I find it in a recent publication, signed by the president and secretary. Here it is:

"The monument is built of Indiana oolitic limestone and stands on a circular plat of ground, slightly elevated in the center, 333 feet 3 inches in diameter, with a street 80 feet in width surrounding it, beyond which, and fronting toward the park, are business houses and dwellings. Its total height, including the crowning figure, is 280 feet. It is surrounded at the base by a terrace 110 feet in diameter, the floor being 10 feet 8 inches above the earth. The pedestal is 52 feet in diameter at the terrace floor and recedes, ascending, until at the line beneath its cornice, 54 feet 8 inches above the terrace floor, it measures 34 feet 6 inches. The diameter of the cornice of the pedestal is 39 feet 6 inches. Thence the pedestal recedes abruptly to the shaft, 25 feet in diameter. At a height of 90 feet 6 inches above the earth, the diameter of the shaft is 19 feet, whence it gradually diminishes to 12 feet 6 inches at the line beneath the capital, which is 13 feet 2 inches in diameter, and is supported by eight eagles carved in stone. A balustrade of stone extends four feet above the floor of the capital, and on this floor stands an iron turret 8 feet in diameter, covered with copper. On this a bronze globe, of the same diameter, will be placed, above which will rise the crowning figure of bronze, emblematic of victory, freedom, and civilization. The statue is 22 feet in height, from the sole of the feet to the crown of the head, and it is eight feet farther to the top of the torch, held in the extended left hand, a sword with the point turned down being in the right.

"Ten feet and six inches beneath the lower line of the capital is astragal No. 1, representing on the four sides of the shaft the years of the Mexican and Civil wars, being the heroic periods of the State of Indiana. This astragal, made of bronze, like Nos. 2 and 3, described below, is 6 feet in width and 13 feet 6 inches in length upon each face of the shaft. On opposite faces are legends, '1846-1848,' '1861-1865,' the figures being two feet high.

"Astragal No. 2 is 80 feet below No. 1, and represents the navy at the period of the Civil War. Its dimensions are: Width, 10 feet; length on each face of the shaft, 18 feet 10 $\frac{3}{8}$ inches, with projections at each of the four corners, making special illustrations of the navy by the prow of an American war vessel. These projections measure about 7 feet from the shaft to the bows of the vessels, and the bowsprits extend some 3 feet further.

"Astragal No. 3, 12 feet 6 inches below No. 2, is to be at the base of the shaft at its union with the pedestal, and is to represent the Army. Dimensions: Width, 11 feet 8 inches; length on each face of the shaft, 25 feet. At the lower line of this astragal there is a projection of stone of 3 feet 4 inches, uniting the shaft with the top of the pedestal which surrounds it below.

"On the east and west faces of the pedestal, upon sub-pedestals, are to be the great bronze groups of 'War' and 'Peace,' in which the decorations of the monument will culminate."

The commissioners, you see, begin to describe the proposed ornamentation with the immense bronze female figure, twenty-two feet high, which is to crown the monument. She is to have a sword in one hand, and hold aloft an immense torch in the other. She is to stand upon a big globe, and that is to rest upon a copper-cased turret, eight feet square, secured to the top of the stone shaft; and the commissioners tell us she is to be "emblematic of victory, freedom, and civilization."

Mr. Bruno Schmitz's original design, as I saw it, faced this figure to the east with two immense wings disfiguring her back on the west. But the commissioners and other State dignitaries, as you know, are located in the State House on the west; so, instead of feasting their eyes on the symmetrical form of her ladyship they could only see her frightful wings. The commissioners wisely ordered them taken off, and that she should be clothed in suitable drapery.

Now as they have done so much to improve her ladyship, and have given her such an elevated position in the world, it would seem in bad taste for her to turn her back toward her benefactors. Besides, she should remember that this is the West, and that for many generations the star of empire and progress has been marching in that direction.

Upon the whole, I am inclined to think that this crowning figure, as improved by the commissioners, will prove appropriate to the monument and satisfactory as a work of art.

I pass down to astragal No. 1—a ring or band passing around the monument, illustrated in bronze. With this, I am glad to say, I am not only satisfied but gratified. It expresses something and it means something. It commemorates two important epochs in Indiana military history—the war with Mexico and the great Civil war. It is eminently proper, and there is no honorable mention that could be made of Indiana in connection with either of these wars that would not meet with my cordial approbation.

They were both exceedingly important in their results. The first secured to the United States a vast extent of desirable territory, and an outlet to the Pacific Ocean of inestimable value. The last saved the union of the States, originally secured by the blood of our Revolutionary fathers—a Union indispensable to the happiness of the people and the security, prosperity, and glory of the nation.

Astragal No. 2 is the next as we descend. It is a collection of huge warships and other things pertaining to a navy, which the commissioners' publication says "represents the navy at the period of the Civil war."

This probably means only that ships of that period were taken for models. Indiana has had regiments, armies, block-houses and forts, but (being inland) she has had no navy or warships, and her sailors have not been very numerous. They have, however, made up in quality what they lacked in quantity. She has some splendid officers in the navy now—Brown, Howison and others —had them during the Civil war and at other periods, and then since the war she has had a first-rate secretary of the navy—Colonel Richard W. Thompson.

The navy of the United States has long been celebrated, if we may judge from the number of Indiana counties named after naval heroes. Perry's cannon thundered on our northern borders and won a great victory, which he announced to an Indiana governor in the never-to-be-forgotten words: "To General Harrison: Dear General—We have met the enemy and they are ours—two ships, two brigs, one schooner and a sloop. Oliver Hazard Perry." A message which sent a thrill of joy into every American heart throughout the land.

I happen to remember that James Blair, eleven times a distinguished member of the Indiana Legislature, was with Perry in that battle, and named Perrysville, in Vermillion county, after him. There were, no doubt, many gallant sailors, like Blair, who served in the United States navy, and so I say, by all means let us honor the gallant sailors, even if they have not been numerous in Indiana.

The next group as we descend is No. 3, which the commissioners say "represents the army." It is emblematical of the army at all times, beautiful, expressive, and, as far as I know, every way satisfactory.

Next come the great bronze groups of "War" and "Peace." These stand at the foot—one fronting east, the other west.

That ends the decorations as now planned and as I have just shown them. The commissioners distinctly say that the decorations of the monument will culminate with the groups of "War" and "Peace." And now that I have examined all, and know just what the monument is to be as now planned, what do I think of it?

I have already given a favorable opinion of the stone shaft.

The great bronze figure at the top, the four groups of bronze statuary, representing the Army, the Navy, War, and Peace, are all in the line of a military monument. The figures in these groups will, no doubt, be colossal, instructive and exceedingly beautiful as works of art. As emblematic of armies, navies, war, and peace in general, they will, I doubt not, prove a magnificent success. I don't know that any of them could now be dispensed with, and I am not now prepared to say that any of them ought to be. But I do say that they are so general in character as to suit one country about as well as another, and that no foreign artist, or any other artist, ought to be allowed to make these so expensive as to keep out Indiana matters which should be represented. Mr. Bruno Schmitz, a worthy Prussian gentleman, is the architect and designer-in-chief of the monument. Mr. Schmitz is, no doubt, a great artist, but I am afraid he knows more of Blücher and Frederick the Great than he does of Clark and Harrison—more of the Rhine and the Oder than he does of the Tippecanoe and the Wabash. I am afraid he cares more for military art, in general, than he does for art that would be specially commemorative of great Indiana events.

The commissioners are to be commended for saying, as they have in one place, that they want this to be an American monument. It should be more. It should be an Indiana monument, commemorating the great military events connected with her history. If it does not do this, a fearful mistake will have been made. It will not do it if nothing else is done but to finish it as it is now planned. Nothing of that kind will be specially commemorated but the Mexican and Civil wars. I submit to you that it would be unjust, and a grave mistake, to send Indiana down to posterity, so far as her great military monument can do it, as having no military history worth remembering, except as connected with the Mexican and Civil wars.

Indiana is not barren of great military events before that period, and of at least two her people are justly proud.

It is not at all likely they expected these events would be ignored in the construction of this monument—that it would commemorate no event prior to 1846. They did not expect it would cover a few years only, or from the State organization only, but from the beginning of Indiana history, just as any historian would have to do to give a satisfactory account.

They remember that in the darkest period of the war of the Revolution one of the most important and far-reaching events of that war took place within the present boundaries of Indiana.

It was then a part of the British dominions, but by the brave and adroit management of George Rogers Clark and his little army, it was taken from them by the capture of Fort Sackville, at Vincennes. The formal surrender took place February 25, 1779—113 years ago this day.

The British flag was taken down the night of the 24th, and at ten o'clock the next morning the American flag was run up. Never, from that glorious hour, thank God! has that flag been lowered to an enemy on Indiana soil.

Can it be possible that such an event as this is to be entirely ignored in the construction of a monument intended to honor and perpetuate Indiana military history? Why, the very ground on which this monument stands was acquired by reason of that great event. The land given Clark and his brave soldiers as some recompense for their great services is Indiana land, situated in Clark, Floyd and Scott counties, and Clark himself was long a citizen of Indiana, residing in Clarksville, Clark county, as I have positive evidence to show. He built a house and erected mills there, and was an active participant in county affairs. I have the original poll-book of an election held in that county in the first decade of Indiana Territory, when the voting was done by word of mouth. The election referred to was one which had an important bearing in shaping Indiana affairs, and the poll-book, of course, shows how Clark voted. I shall not produce it now or explain further here, but hope to give to the public before the close of the present year, not only that but much other original matter relating to Clark and his great campaign which has never yet been published.

My only object now is to point out that Clark, at one time, was a citizen of Indiana. That his great campaign is one of the most important and well-known military events in her history and should not be entirely ignored in the construction of this monument. That it was a campaign of vast importance is not my judgment alone. So far as I know, it is the judgment of all who have written upon the subject. As the wonderful development of the great Northwest which he enabled this country to acquire becomes more manifest it will be still more appreciated.

John B. Dillon, the father of Indiana history, says of Clark's campaign that "with respect to the magnitude of its design, the valor and perseverance with which it was carried on, and the momentous results which were produced by it, the expedition stands without a parallel in the early annals of the Mississippi."

Jacob P. Dunn, the author of one of the latest and best histories of Indiana, speaks of it as "a most memorable campaign, by which the Northwest was brought into the possession of Americans, and secured to the Union, in the conduct of which General Clark had fairly earned the title of 'the Hannibal of the West,' and which was afterwards bestowed upon him by that eccentric genius, John Randolph, of Roanoke."

John Law, an eminent Indiana jurist, statesman and historian, in his colonial history of Vincennes, says: "It was a conquest made under the most adverse and trying circumstances, and with a skill and bravery not surpassed in the most glorious triumphs of the Revolution. The reader need not be informed that I refer to the conquest of 'Post Vincennes,' and the capture of Hamilton and his troops, on the memorable 24th of February, 1779, by General George Rogers Clark. To him, in my opinion, considering the results of that conquest, the vast addition of territory acquired by it, and the incalculable advantages to the people who now occupy it, and to the country at large, the United States are more indebted than to any other general of the Revolution—Washington alone excepted."

I could enlarge this with numerous similar quotations from the most eminent historians in the United States.

But I pass on to another great historical epoch intimately connected with Indiana's history, viz.: the wars of 1811 and 1812, with the Indians and the British. William Henry Harrison, the then Governor of Indiana, was the hero in both. He was a man brave and honorable himself, and he was blessed, not only with an honorable ancestry, but with a posterity that can justly be regarded with equal pride. In his youth he was an officer over what is now Indiana, when it was yet a part of the Territory of the Northwest. He was in at the birth of Indiana Territory, and for over a decade lived on her soil as her Governor, battling for her interests. Not always on the side of questions now popular, and subjected to the usual amount of abuse visited upon those holding, or aspiring to hold, high political positions, he was, nevertheless, a great and good man, and deserves to be gratefully remembered. Especially is this true in Indiana, where he was the successor, in military renown, of the immortal Clark, and where, as in the case of Clark, he led a campaign to victory on Indiana soil—a victory which thrilled the Nation, and should never be forgotten by Indiana people. Tippecanoe was, in every respect, an Indiana battle, fought upon her soil, by Indiana Indians on one side, and by an American army on the other, over two-thirds of whom were Indiana militia. I can not call to mind any battle between whites and Indians more far-reaching and beneficial to the white race than this, where Warrick, Spencer, White, McMahon, Berry, Randolph, and other brave Indianians fell, never again to rise. Their dust is now mingling with Indiana soil. Harrison, their great commander, after reaching the highest honors known to men, "sleeps well," just over the border, on the "beautiful river"—whilst, lower down the same historic stream, Clark, his great predecessor in military glory, is "sleeping his last sleep" in sight of the land he conquered. Again, I ask, can it be possible that this world-renowned Indiana battle, and all these thrilling incidents, which will ever quicken the pulse-beat of every true son and daughter of the State, is to find no recognition, no mention, in the construction of this monument?

Do you think there should be no recognition of the capture of Vincennes, and the Battle of Tippecanoe? Is there a fair man or woman in the State who thinks they ought to be ignored? I should be sorry to think there is one. I speak for the brave and patriotic dead. I ask that Clark's capture of Vincennes, and Harrison's battle of Tippecanoe, shall be recognized and commemorated in some suitable way in connection with the erection of this great Indiana monument. There were striking situations in both that could have been made thrillingly interesting in the hands of competent sculptors, and would have made appropriate and expressive adornments; but in view of the large groups, of a general character, already ordered, I do not know that anything in that direction could now be done. Some suitable inscriptions, however, or other proper recognition in appropriate places on the face of the monument could yet be made at comparatively little cost. Of course it should be done.

There is also another thing that can yet be done that I think is of the greatest possible importance, and to which I now respectfully solicit your earnest attention. In my opinion, it would prove to be a most expressive, popular and realistic illustration of the four greatest epochs in the military history of Indiana. These I consider to be the capture of Vincennes, the battle of Tippecanoe, the Mexican war, the Civil war. I would commemorate each of these great epochs by a bronze statue of the principal actor in each. I would place these statues a suitable distance from the shaft of the monument, low enough down to be plainly seen—one on each side of the shaft, facing out east, west, north and south.

I think space sufficient could be found on the lower superstructure, already there, for the statues to stand on, and even if some of the ideal figures I have seen on the plans were abandoned to make room, it would be a good change. For that matter suitable pedestals can be erected for the statues near the rim of the Circle, on the line of the center of each of the four approaching streets. The monument substantially covers the whole of Circle Park, and these changes and additions would be in perfect harmony with the main shaft, and prove to be the monument's crowning glory.

The cost of these additions would not, probably, be over half the cost of the groups of Peace and War. George Rogers Clark and William Henry Harrison should be two of these representative men. I am told there would be trouble determining who should be the representative man for the epoch of the Civil war. I don't think so. Indiana's great military war governor, Oliver P. Morton, should be the man. No doubt about that at all. Morton's statue is already made, and a better could not be made. It is of proper size, a good likeness, and every way creditable. Let it be properly mounted under the shadow of the shaft of Indiana's great military monument and there let it stand for ages in his honor, and as emblematic of the great war in which he bore so conspicuous a part.

And let Clark and Harrison, and whoever is the representative of the Mexican war, stand in the same way as emblematic of the great military events with which they were connected.

I know no politics in such matters as these, but the logic of the situation, after selecting the three, as I have indicated, would seem to require that the fourth should be a Democrat. I consider Gen. Joseph Lane a proper representative of Indiana in the Mexican war. He was the only Indiana general in that war, and a braver man never walked the earth. He was an Indiana pioneer, sprung from the common people, and raised himself by merit to many high positions. He finally left Indiana and became Governor of Oregon and a Senator of the United States.

If his removal from the State, or anything, should make the selection of some one else preferable, the commissioners will not have far to go to find glorious old Gen. Mahlon D. Manson, the hero of two wars, who, to my certain knowledge, has not been out of the State for any considerable time for over forty years, except to serve his country; or they can go to Washington county, where they will find Major James A. Cravens, a "Cincinnatus," living quietly on his farm, who is a native of the State; or they can take James Whitcomb, who was Indiana's war governor in that war.

I could name other Mexican-war Democrats, to use a current phrase, "qualified for the position." I do not name Gen. Lew Wallace, and possibly other Republicans, only because of the political necessities before stated. Besides the General has already made himself an imperishable monument in another direction.

There is nothing at all difficult in selecting the four representative men.

When done, and the statues in place, it will be an Indiana monument, as well as a great work of art. It will be brought nearer home to the comprehension and hearts of all our people, and at the same time will be in harmony with the general design. It will not only better commemorate the Mexican and Civil wars than now proposed, but will include the capture of Vincennes and the battle of Tippecanoe, which otherwise will not be commemorated at all. It will be the only special recognition of Indiana men that can be found on, or connected with, the monument anywhere, as far as I know. As it is now, I think, you may go from the big woman at the top to its base, and you will not find Clark, or Harrison, or Morton, or Lane or any other military hero connected with great events in Indiana history, nor will you find them mentioned.

I do not think this is as it should be. I have come to this conclusion after an honest and earnest examination into all the facts. I censure no one. If mistakes have been made, I count them only errors of judgment, and there is still time to apply a remedy.

The object of this address has been to point out what I think is now the best and most available remedy. I have tried to do this, not in a spirit of fault-finding, but as an earnest appeal to reason, patriotism and justice. I am a native of Indiana, anxious to promote her honor and glory. I believe this monument, finished as I have indicated, would be a step in that direction, but that to finish it as now planned would leave it far short of what it should be. It is to prevent the latter, if possible, that I have spoken, and I have spoken for those who can not now speak for themselves. I have spoken for Clark, for Harrison, and for all the heroic dead of their commands. I hope I have not spoken entirely in vain. But whether I have or not, I shall at least have the consciousness of having discharged my duty.

The society acted at once upon Mr. English's vigorous plea for a recognition of all the heroes of Indiana. A committee was appointed, with Mr. English as chairman, to memorialize the legislature in regard to a fuller expression through the monument of the patriotism and valor of the earlier but not less earnest and admirable soldiers and sailors whose names are connected with Indiana history.

The following is copied from the recorded minutes of the proceedings of the society upon the occasion referred to, viz.:

"At a meeting of the Indiana Society of the Sons of the American Revolution held at the Denison Hotel, on February 25, 1892, an address was delivered as a part of the program of the meeting by the Hon. William H. English upon Indiana's military history and the Soldier's Monument. Mr. English's address made certain recommendations in reference to the completion of the Soldier's Monument to the end that the memorial should be made characteristic of Indiana's history, and urged that some notice be given in the design of Indiana's four great military events:

1. Capture of Vincennes, 1779.
2. Battle of Tippecanoe.
3. Mexican War.
4. Civil War.

by suitable statuary or memorial tablets.

"Upon the motion of C. W. Moores, seconded by F. N. Kollock, it was directed that the president appoint a committee of five who should have Mr. English's address printed and present it as a memorial to the Monument Commissioners and the Legislature, and urge upon them the adoption of Mr. English's suggestions for the completion of the monument."

Pensioners of the Revolutionary War Who Lived in Indiana in 1835

The following eight hundred and ten veterans of the American Revolution were on the Federal pension rolls in 1835 as residents of Indiana. The list was prepared pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Senate of the United States on June 5, 1834. The Secretary of War reported all pensioners under the act of Congress of May 15, 1828, "for the relief of the surviving officers and soldiers of the Revolution," and the supplementary act of June 7, 1832, and included soldiers of the Continental line, and regulars, State troops, militia and volunteers. The list below is part of a complete list for all the States, and is found in the State Library at Indianapolis, in a volume entitled "Senate Doc., Pension Roll, 1st Sess., 23d Congress, Vol. 3."

Following is a complete list by counties :

ALLEN.

James Ball, Michael Cronts, James Saunders.

BARTHOLOMEW.

Job Hamlin, George Alcorn, Richard Crittenden, William Campbell, Stephen Goble, Thomas McQueen.
